

STRIKERS

Are Losing Ground Rapidly in Their Battle With the Trust.

Overtures for Peace Ignored

By President Schwab, of the Steel Trust, Who Declares Their is Nothing to Arbitrate.

--Illinois Men Want to Return to Work.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.

Indianapolis, Aug. 29.—Simon Burns, head of the glass workers, announced today that President Schwab, of the steel trust, has rejected his proposal of arbitration for the steel workers' strike.

Overtures Ignored by Schwab.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.

New York, Aug. 29.—President Schwab and all the other officials of the steel trust, it is said today, are ignoring all overtures from the labor union men toward a settlement of the steel strike. Schwab says there is nothing to arbitrate and that they are getting the men back every day for work in the mills.

Milwaukee Men are Weakening.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.

Milwaukee, Aug. 29.—Conservative steel workers at Bay View have held a secret meeting and have sent J. D. Hickey and Jas. Cooper to Pittsburg to see President Shaffer. Their mission is to ask the Amalgamated president for permission to resume work in the Illinois steel plants in Joliet as well as in Bay View.

THE STEEL TRUST

Is Advertising For Men But the Strikers Remain Firm.

Pittsburg, Aug. 29.—The steel corporation claims it continued making men in this district, and added men to its force at the star plant to insure the working of two mills during the night and day from now on. The management claims that the strike plant will be working full force before the week ends. The strikers say this claim can not be made good. The American Tin Plate company has commenced advertising for nonunion men. All applicants are offered the highest wages and permanent jobs. In every case the application must be made personally and the applicant declare himself free from all union control. The company has not as yet made the attempt to start either its Monongahela or Duquesne plants, but says both will be started soon. When asked what he thought of the tin plate company's avowed intention of breaking away from the union entirely, President Shaffer of the Amalgamated Association said: "Where will they get men to run their plants? If we thought the men could be secured, the threat might frighten us. Until we are assured that they are forthcoming we will keep our nerve."

The latest official declaration from steel sources is that the strike can now be settled only by the men going back to the mills. The position the officials take, it is said, is that the strike is over so far as their dealing with the strikers as a body is concerned. They want workmen for their idle mills, and men who want work can have it for the asking at wages paid before the shut-down. They may be union men or not, but the union can have no say as to work or wages.

Y., and the police of that town notified.

Columbus, Aug. 29.—Madessa Conway, aged nine years, who has been living with her mother in Chapel alley, was sent to the Girls' Industrial School today by the Probate Court on complaint of the Humane Society. Her offense was tying the feet of her pet cat together and suspending the helpless animal from one end of a pole, holding the other in her hand and touching a match to the kitten's fur. She was unmoved by the writhings and wails of the kitten as it passed through its cremation, but held the pole until the cat was dead.

BLAME

For the Tendency of Railways

To Consolidate

Placed Upon Inter-state Commerce Laws.

Evidence Before Industrial Commission on Transportation

Is Made Public and Shows the Charges of Discrimination in Rates Favoring Standard Oil Co.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Evidence before the Industrial Commission on transportation was made public today. The tendency toward a great consolidation of railways is attributed to the inter-state commerce law prohibiting pooling. Regarding freight rates it is stated that they have steadily decreased with consolidation. Grain rates from Chicago to New York, which in 1892, were 12 cents per bushel, have decreased in 1899, to 10 cents per bushel. Discriminating rate making was charged by Prof. Parsons, who says that secret rebates from 15 to 75 per cent have been made in Massachusetts and that the Standard Oil Company secures discriminating by under billing of cars making rates from points where that company has refineries at lower than rates for competitors at other points.

TREASURER

Of Mississippi Suspended from Duty.

Governor Installs Another Man in the Office.

The Treasurer Failed to Make a Satisfactory Explanation of the Absence of Funds from His Office.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 29.—Governor Longino signed a document suspending State Treasurer J. R. Stowers and appointed Hon. G. W. Carlisle temporary treasurer. Mr. Stowers in his statement given out last Friday said that the $107,000 missing and unaccounted for when the governor counted the cash Aug. 15 was deposited in banks by his cashier, under his direction, which is forbidden by law. All the banks of Jackson having denied that they had any of this money on deposit, the governor wrote Mr. Stowers for a full and complete statement in writing as to where the deposits were made and all things connected with the transaction.

Treasurer Stowers' answer to Governor Longino's letter as to the whereabouts of the cash missing Aug. 15 is a very long document. He declines to name the banks wherein the cash was deposited. The governor, the auditor, a revenue agent, bank cashiers Jones and Anderson, and the old and new treasurers have recounted the cash. An expert accountant also will be employed at once to overhaul the books, and on his report custer proceedings will be instituted against the treasurer for alleged violation of the law in failing to keep the money in the treasury. Mr. Stowers has retained counsel to represent him.

Mr. Carlisle, the new treasurer, is an alderman of the city of Jackson. He has filed the required personal bond and entered upon the discharge of his duties.

Lives Sacrificed by the Explosion of a Steamboat Boiler.

Crowded With Passengers

When the Port Boiler Burst Rending the Decks and Scalding the Victims With the Liberated Steam.—Fire Followed the Explosion.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—The number killed by the explosion of a boiler on the steamer, City of Trenton, may be increased to 13, the known number now being 11. Of 10 remaining victims in the hospital at Holmesburg, two women are in such a critical condition that the doctors have given up hope and have notified relatives to hasten to their death beds.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.

Had a Coffin On Board.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—On the ill-fated steamer City of Trenton, yesterday, the only piece of freight was an empty coffin.

EXPLOSION

Of the Port Boiler Was Followed By Disastrous Fire.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—While the steamboat City of Trenton of the Wilmington Steamboat company was on her way from this city to Trenton, N. J., her port boiler exploded, killing seven persons and injuring over a score of others. Four passengers are missing, but as many sustained slight injuries it is thought the missing may be among those who did not find it necessary to go to the hospital. The dead are: D. J. Chew, assistant engineer; Miss Elizabeth Green, Philadelphia; two firemen, one deckhand and two passengers, names unknown. Missing: Mrs. John Mathews and Mrs. Matilda Cross, Philadelphia, and two children, who were seen to jump overboard. Theresa Rhein and Louisa Panschock of Philadelphia were fatally injured.

After the explosion the boat took fire and ran aground. She lies a wrecked and blackened hulk in the marshes opposite Torresdale, 16 miles above this city. Her hold is filled with water and it is feared more of her passengers and crew may be found in the bottom of the boat when the water is pumped out. The City of Trenton made daily trips between Philadelphia and Trenton, stopping at Burlington, N. J., Bristol, Pa., and other points on the way. She left the company's wharf 15 minutes behind her schedule time. Her passenger list was lighter than usual, and she carried very little freight. The vessel was in charge of Captain W. A. Worrell. The other officers were: Edward Curry, pilot; J. W. Vanderveer, mate; Edward Murphy, chief engineer; J. D. Chew, assistant engineer, and Clayton Reynolds, purser. There were about 12 firemen and deckhands aboard. Nothing of moment occurred until the boat reached Torresdale. At a point opposite what is known as Harrison mansion, a spacious building fronting the Delaware river at this suburban resort, the steam pipe connecting with the port boiler burst with a loud report. The forward portion of the upper deck was well filled with passengers, while many others were in the cabin. Before any of the passengers or employees had time to seek places of safety another explosion occurred, and this time the port boiler was rent in twain. Scalding steam and water poured into the cabin and sections of the woodwork were torn away by the explosion. Passengers who were not scalded by steam and boiling water were struck by the flying portions of the splintered cabin. Legs and arms were broken and faces and bodies were parboiled. The screams of the injured could be heard on shore and the cries of those who leaped and were blown into the river were heartrending. So great was the force of the explosion that a piano in the upper drawing room was hurled many feet away from the boat into the river. This proved a fortunate circumstance for many of the injured passengers. Thrown into the water, scalded and otherwise injured so that they were rendered helpless, they clung to the piano, which had fallen into shallow water, until rescued.

When the explosions occurred Mate Vanderveer and Pilot Curry were in the pilot house. Both were hurled with terrific force from the little inclosure. The wheel began revolving with lightning-like rapidity, causing the rudder to turn the bow of the boat towards shore, and she quickly ran aground, fastening herself in the mud.

By this time the vessel had caught fire and those of the passengers who were still aboard were compelled to leap for their lives. Fortunately the water was not more than four feet deep, and many were able to wade ashore. Some, however, who were too seriously injured to help themselves, were rescued. The captain and crew of the boat conducted themselves as heroes. They rendered all the assistance possible to the injured, and Captain Worrell was the last man to leave the boat.

Who Takes the Cake?

In an old number of What to Eat is found a suggestion which will lessen the care of hostesses.

"Who takes the cake?" is a most merrymaking scheme to assist in making a deliciously entertaining luncheon. The hostess provides upon slips of paper what may be termed cake conundrums. These are neatly written and wound upon coarse steel knitting needles into little rolls, and tied with baby ribbon to match the color scheme of the table.

These are brought in and passed to the guests, each taking one, just after serving the after-dinner coffee. The hostess announces that each is to guess the name of the cake suggested on her slip, adding, the one who gives the most correct answers wins the prize of a delicious cake, which should be exhibited. "The hostess has a list of the answers, and when one misses the 'hit' she reads it to the merriment of the crowd. For instance, one slip reads: Name the president's cake. The answer is (election). The parentheses must not appear on the slips. A list recently used, and very wittily selected, is given for suggestion:

Name the geologist's cake. (Mountain.)
Name the advertiser's cake. (Puff.)
Name the farmer's cake. (Corn.)
Name the tailor's cake. (Measure.)
Name the milliner's cake. (Ribben.)
Name the devout cake. (Angel food.)
Name the jeweler's cake. (Gold.)
Name the lover's cake. (Kisses.)
Name the author's cake. (Short cake.)
Name the pugilist's cake. (Pound.)
Name the office seeker's cake. (Washington.)
Name the doctor's cake. (Loaf.)
Many others can be added by the clever hostess.

Girl Tobaccoists.

"Goodwin Sisters, Dealers in Cigars and Tobacco," is the sign which hangs over a flourishing cigar store in Boston. The proprietors of the business are two extremely pretty and bright young women who chose to make their living by going into business rather than by putting on spectacles, cutting their hair short and setting up as schoolmistresses in the regulation way. The sisters have been successful, and their success has brought with it some degree of embarrassment.

A few weeks ago a brief account of their unique enterprise was printed in a Boston paper, and since that time they have been almost overwhelmed with offers of marriage. These offers come from all sorts of men and from all parts of the country. Miss Harrie, the youngest sister, has already filed away 36 offers, and every mail adds to the list. One of the most persistent of her suitors is a Maine farmer who has 3,000 bushels of potatoes and a cow to lay at her feet. Meanwhile the young woman serves notice that she does not intend to get married until she is 50 years old, a statement which puts the date off a matter of more than 25 years. —Providence Journal.

SANURY

Will Cure You

If you have kidney or bladder trouble, rheumatism or gout, Sanury, a combination of remedial agents, which has been found to be unfailing in the cure of diseases depending upon the function of disease of the kidneys or liver. Rheumatism is in this class of diseases, for while it is caused by the presence in the blood of an excess of uric acid, yet that excess would not be there if the kidneys were doing their work as they should. Part of the work of the kidneys is to get rid of the uric acid which is always forming. It is not unusual for uric acid to form in the body but it is unusual for it to accumulate when the kidneys are doing their duty. If the kidneys are not doing their duty they are diseased or overworked. There are three conditions which cause the uric acid to accumulate, and only giving prompt relief, but selecting a permanent cure.

A WALKING DELEGATE.

She is said to be the Only Woman in Such a Position.

Miss Ellen Lindstrom, the only woman winning delegate in the world, is the leading spirit in the new Domestic Servants' union. She promises to rival in importance all the high dignitaries of the men's labor unions. Miss Lindstrom by a word will be able to make Chicago, or a big part of it, do without its meals or also do the cooking for itself. She represents the Scandinavian element in the new domestic union, but she has no preference for her countrywomen in the matter of leadership. Irish, English, German and Scandinavian, all will have an equal chance of coming to the front as leaders of the women if Miss Lindstrom is to have her way. She is an unusually intelligent woman, who knows the rights of her fellow laborers and whose flashing eye is an indication that she can fight to the last ditch and inspire others to fight with her. —Chicago Record-Herald.

Progressive Cards.

Special attention is now paid by all progressive establishments to cards for bridesmaids' luncheons and wedding breakfasts. It is possible to secure designs of Cupids aiming the deadly shafts, or hearts pierced by the latter, or sprays of orange blossoms, or maidens daintily enveloped in folds of bridal illusion.

Silhouette cards can only be secured by sending your stationer the photographs of your expected guests. Although this is something of an undertaking, it is nevertheless often done. The result is a card for each guest having his own portrait carried out in the form of a silhouette.

Medallion designs, showing gallant men and lovely women costumed in eighteenth century fashion and surrounded by heavy gilt frames form another popular suggestion, says the Pittsburgh Post.

Although the French themselves use but few novelties in their cards, French designs carried out by American brushers command a ready sale. Pierrots and piqueottes, picturesque French bonnets, white capped Norman peasants and flower sellers of Paris form an enchanting series.

A Daisy Luncheon.

This, given under the trees, is particularly pleasing. Have as many round tables as are needed to accommodate the guests, not too large in size to detract from the dainty scheme of the occasion. Cover these with large pieces of white cloth cut in daisy shape, the petals reaching the edge of the table, the center being cut out so that the space will allow placing there a heaped up bowl of daisies.

The menu, so long as it is of the sort to please the feminine palate, is of little consequence, as anything is sure to taste delicious when served amid such environments. To follow out the idea of the daisy as the decorative principle, china painted with daisies should be used. The loes may be served in the shape of daisies, glassware forming the petals, with frozen custard of genuine blue fashioning the center.

FARM & GARDEN

FIRE LANES.

A Suggestion in Forestry From Southern New Jersey.

It is generally recognized throughout Europe that the construction of suitable fire lanes throughout the forest conduces more to the prevention of great conflagrations than any other institution. These serve as vantage points in the fighting of fire and often by themselves are sufficient to prevent its spread. By means of fire lanes the country is cut into parcels and the danger of great conflagrations very materially reduced. These fire lanes, in order to be efficient, must be wide, clean and well cleared; for otherwise they are of little use.

Fire lanes may be constructed at slight expense in southern New Jersey. After the wood is cut it is necessary to plow three or four furrows along the edges and then to burn over the lane at times when there is no danger of setting fire to the neighboring woods. A lane 50 feet in width would be quite efficient.

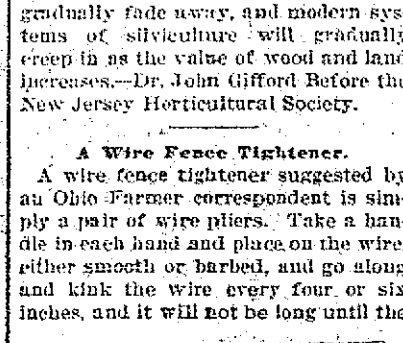

The scheme which I have to suggest is that these fire lanes be constructed and kept in order in a way similar to the construction of state roads, which have been so popular of late. In this way no terrible burden of expense rests upon anybody. The individual benefited thereby pays part, the county another part, and the state pays the other part.

New Jersey was the first state to take any radical step toward the improvement of her public highways. The state aid law provides that, on petition of the owners of two-thirds of the lands bordering any public road, not less than a mile in length, asking that the road be improved and agreeing to pay 10 per cent of the cost, the county officials shall improve the road, one-third of the expenses to be borne by the state, if the road is "in" to the standard fixed by the state commissioner of public roads, and the balance—66 2/3 per cent—by the county. The state's expenditures for such improvements in any one year are limited to $150,000, while the county is limited to one-fourth of 1 per cent of its assessed valuation. Since 1885 the applications for new roads have been far in excess of the limit prescribed by law.

It seems to me that it would be a simple process to extend this system to the construction of fire lanes. It is foolish to talk of forest culture until fires are reduced in number. For this purpose fire lanes are essential, and this is the only scheme I know of which seems practical and possible. Once instituted a perfect system of fire lanes under combined state and local control, and the number and severity of the fires will be reduced to such an extent that the evil will, I am certain, gradually fade away, and modern systems of silviculture will gradually creep in as the value of wood and land increases. —Dr. John Gifford Before the New Jersey Horticultural Society.

A Wire Fence Tightener.

A wire fence tightener suggested by an Ohio Farmer correspondent is simply a pair of wire pliers. Take a handle in each hand and place on the wire, either smooth or barbed, and go along and link the wire every four or six inches, and it will not be long until the wire will "sing" and be tight. It is a good way to make the wires all tight like, and I think it is a good plan to link the wires in a new fence, especially smooth wires, for they will not be so apt to break from contracting by cold. If any person who reads this article has loose wire fence, just get your pliers and try it. The cut illustrates the method of linking.

Good For Storing Sweet Potatoes.

Storing sweet potatoes in cottonseed hulls, cotton seed and sand in the usual way has given best results at the South Carolina station. Storing in straw has given the poorest results. It appears that cottonseed hulls are admirably adapted for use in storing sweet potatoes. The same is true for cotton seed, only to a less extent.

THE CORN HARVESTER.

Corn Cutting Made Easier and Faster—Shredding and Husking.

Three ordinary horses will run the binder, and the work is not hard. It requires four men to make a full set of hands to keep all the corn shocked up in good shape as fast as it is cut. It is not very hard work on the men, nothing like so hard as to cut either by hand or with a sled cutter, and it is evident to my mind that we will be compelled to adopt the binder as the system of corn cutting, for it is almost impossible to hire men to go into the corn field and cut corn by hand at any price, and we have had to pay more for cutting the fodder than the feed was worth after it was cut.

With the harvester the work is much easier and faster. One can commence several days earlier, as the shocks stand more open and will dry out better than when put up without binding, and one can make the shocks much larger if desired, and they will stand up better than when loose. It is much easier to husk, as it is not necessary to untie the bundles, but turn them so as to get all the corn. The fodder can then be set up again and hauled as fed or to the yard and stacked.

A better way is to shred. Eight acres of heavy corn make a fair day's work, and the machine will not leave more on the ground than the average hired man.

In heavy corn we found that the harvester would knock off about three or four bushels to the acre. This seems to be unavoidable with the present style of machine, but it may be overcome by future improvement. I trust so, as this is the only objection I see to the harvester, says a Prairie Farmer correspondent.

It will cut from 100 to 150 acres in one season, the length of the season depending on the weather and the date of planting the corn. As soon as dry I would advise shredding the fodder and husking the corn, as there is always more or less waste while it stands in the field.

We paid $10 per day for shredder, engine and three men and could husk and shred five acres per day of average good corn. It took five men and teams to get the fodder to the machine, and draw the shredded fodder away and crib the corn.

THE PICKLE WORM.

Summer Squash a Good Trap Crop. Clean Culture a Preventive.

The pickle worm is destructive mainly to the fruit of the cantaloupe, squash and cucumber by eating cavities or channels in the rind or by boring quite to the interior. The first crop of cucurbits, as a rule, escapes its ravages, but late cucurbits are usually badly infested.

In the north the pickle worm may be injurious only during occasional years, but in the south, particularly the Carolina

CANTALOUPE AND PICKLE WORMS.

Flas, Georgia and Florida, cucurbit fields are rarely free from it during late summer and fall.

The pickle worm feeds on most varieties of cucurbits, but it has a decided preference for the squash; therefore trap plants of summer squash are used as a protection, and as the trap crop must be kept growing as long as protection is necessary seed is planted every two weeks or so.

The Georgia station in their advising in regard to this worm says: As with most other insects, clean culture will here be of value. Collect and burn the old cucurbit vines. Trash in fence corners should be carefully raked out and burned during the winter.

Cold Curing Takes the Cheese.

Experiments in cheese curing which have been conducted for two years at the Geneva (N. Y.) experiment station have results of the highest importance from the commercial standpoint. Cheeses have been cured at temperatures varying from 50 degrees F. to 80 degrees F., the higher temperatures representing the common factory conditions.

Of the cheeses made in 1899, those cured at 60 degrees F. and below scored on the average almost five points higher on flavor and 2.5 points higher on texture than those cured at 63 degrees F. and above. In 1900 the average difference in flavor of the lower temperature was 5.1 points on flavor and 2.7 points on texture.

This is a matter well worth the attention of all cheese factory managers, because these differences in commercial quality are sufficient to cause important differences in the selling price.

Cowpeas.

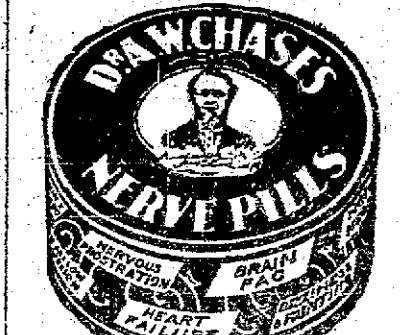

Cowpeas are nearly equal to alfalfa in feeding value and contains nearly one-half more flesh and milk making material than clover hay. It is rich in the mineral matter that is needed to forming bone, blood, flesh and milk. These qualities make it especially valuable for feeding growing cattle and pigs, dairy cows and fattening steers and hogs. The cowpeas enclose the land on which it grows the same as alfalfa, clover and soy beans. It makes hard soils mellow and aids in holding loose soils together and stands drought well. Cowpeas can often be grown as a second crop after wheat and oats.

Nerve Slavery

It is present-day conditions—heapings burdens of work upon the nervous system, that tells the story—premature breaking up of health.

It tells why so many men and women, who so far as age is concerned, should be in the prime of health, find themselves feeling gloom of the strength, the power, the vitality they once possessed. It is because that great motor power of the body, nerve force, is impaired. Neither will the heart, the brain, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach act right—without their proper nerve force supply. Let any organ be lacking in this essential and troubles begin—some of them are:

Fainting, palpitation heart.
Sleepless nights.
Sudden startings.
Morning languor.
Brain fog.
Inability to work or think.
Exhaustion on exertion.
Flagging appetite.
Dignation slow.
Food heavy.
Easily excited, nervous, irritable.
Strength fails.
Loss of flesh and muscular power.

Consumers' League.

The Consumers' (or Shopper's) league is showing fresh signs of growth. Funds are coming in from the Pennsylvania branches for the support of the national league, and steps are being taken to arrange for an exhibition at the Pan-American of all kinds of useful underwear bearing the consumers' label, which guarantees that the sewing is done under healthful conditions. One of the chief objects of the society is to show the danger of wearing sweatshop and tenement house made clothing. Testimony is accumulating on this point from physicians, nurses, inspectors and others. The head of the nurses' settlement of New York said before the commission of investigation: "Tuberculosis seems to be the disease most dreaded. We see so much of it that we call it 'tailor's disease.' And we have frequently found people working on garments in a room where there was scarlet fever." —Philadelphia Ledger.

Artemus Ward on "Woman's Sphere."

In one of the multitudinous discussions going on nowadays as to the limits of "woman's sphere" Mr. Artemus Ward's description of a woman addressing her fellow passengers in a railroad train on the subject has been revived by an exchange. He speaks of her, to quote one of his own expressions, "thusly": "She said every woman should have a Spear. She went on: 'What is my Spear? Is it to stay at home & darn stockings & be the slave of a domineering man, or is it my Spear to vote & speak & show myself the equal of a man? Is there a sister in these keers that has her proper Spear?' saying which the eccentric female whirled her umbrella around several times & finally jabbed me in the vest with it. 'Have no objections to your going into the Spear business,' sez I, 'but you'll please remember I ain't a pickler. Don't Spear me again, if you please.'"

To Clean Hats.

Fine straw or Panama hats which are very much soiled can easily be made presentable by scrubbing quickly with a saturated solution of oxalic acid. Use a small brush and dry quickly to prevent warping. Keep the solution out of hair's way, and remember it is no more innocent if called salts of lemon. Mark the bottle "poison" in red ink.

THE MOTHER OF TRUSTS.

There is no possible way by which the Republican party can escape from the responsibility of the big strike now being waged by the billion dollar steel trust and the Amalgamated Association, and if the trust wins and unionism is destroyed, the Republican party will be amenable to the workmen of the world for having torn down the bulwark which enabled them to hold their own with the greed of conscienceless task-masters.

The Republican party's policy under the Hanna regime made trusts and the manifold evils which follow in their wake, a possible condition.

Without the aid and consent of the administration the anti-trust laws would not have been violated, with impunity and immense companies are enabled to crush out the smaller producers thereby destroying all competition, at the same time attempting to break down and destroy all labor unions. In an editorial upon the subject yesterday the Toledo Bee truly says:

And now they say the next war between labor and capital will begin in September when the brewers of the country will combine to crush out the brewery workers' union.

If the steel trust wins its fight against the Amalgamated Association the chances are that every other trust will follow up the advantage and a general war on unionism will be made. And there appears to be but little hope of the Amalgamated Association winning its fight unless it is aided by practically all organized labor. The trust is compactly organized and working under one head. The employees are divided into hostile factions, unionists and non-unionists, and the trust is playing these factions against each other. The trust is also making a shrewd play by seeking to discredit the association by charging that the men are violating contracts regularly made with their employers.

So the Amalgamated Association is between the devil and the deep sea. If the people believe they won't live up to their contracts the men will lose public sympathy. If they do live up to their contracts the trust has the association at its mercy temporarily at least. Other unions are timid at out-going any further than to give the Amalgamated Association other than moral and financial assistance, yet their leaders know that if the steel trust wins other trusts will fight the same fight and any union organization is liable to be the next to get the graft.

The war is inseparably connected with the contest for supremacy between the principles of democracy and those of plutocracy as represented on the one hand by the democratic party and on the other hand by the trust political machine known as the republican party. In the world of work as well as in the political arena it is democracy versus imperialism, the many against the few and with every instrument of war except the ballot in the hands of the few. And workingmen don't make the ballot count because they haven't yet learned to use it for their own benefit. They are kept divided in their political beliefs just as they are kept divided into unionists and non-unionists.

The trusts helped put the republican party in power. They furnished the money that made up Hanna's vast corruption funds of 1896 and 1900. And after the republican party won the political battle the trusts insisted on having what they paid for. They named the attorney generals under McKinley, and have not been bothered by them. Hanna saved them from trouble in Ohio by keeping his grip on the republican machine and killing off all anti-trust legislation that came before the general assembly. His right hand man in Ohio is the commanding general of the state militia. The governor of Ohio is his pliant tool and has used the state patronage to help strengthen the Hanna machine. The federal patronage in Ohio and other states has been used to build up a machine that could control legislatures and conventions so as to control legislation and nominate officials who could be handled.

Federal judges, attorney generals, United States district attorneys, United States marshals and even state, district and county judges have been nominated, elected and controlled by this same trust-kept republican machine.

Tariff laws affecting the trusts have been dictated by the trusts themselves, and all along the staunchest supporters of the protective theory among workmen have been the members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

Some day workmen will see that imperialism is an issue in politics and that industrial centralization and imperialism is the aim of the financial giants who favor the complete organization of capital and the disorganization of labor, and then they will see that the republican party has been used since 1896, is the object tool of this imperial industrial organization; and that so long as organized capital can keep labor politically divided into democrats, republicans, populists, socialists and other parties organized capital will win.

Cotton Mill Strikes.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 29.—A strike was declared in all the cotton mills in this city until the mill authorities rescinded their action forcing the operators to abjure unions. Mill officials began swearing out writs to eject striking tenants from dwelling houses owned by the mills and seemed to operate for two weeks at a time. President Smith-Whaley denies his report of statement that "the mill men in South Carolina have entered into an ironclad agreement not to employ union labor."

CARRIE VISITS GOTHAM

First Impression Is That New York Is a Very Wicked Place.

SHE BEARDED MURPHY IN HIS DEN.

Kansas Smasher Riled the Police Commissioner by Calling Him Father. She Suggested a Little "Hatch-etation" For the City's Good.

New York, Aug. 29.—Mrs. Carrie Nation arrived in this city Wednesday. She had an interview with Police Commissioner Murphy, during which he told her that she would be arrested if she violated the law in this city.

Mrs. Nation called at John L. Sullivan's saloon to see the expugalist in reference to a statement he made to her would "throw her into the sewer." Sullivan sent down word that he was ill, but made an appointment to meet her next Monday. She then went to see Archbishop Corrigan, but he was out of town.

When Mrs. Nation entered police headquarters she was shown at once to Commissioner Murphy's room. In opening her interview with the commissioner she said she had called on him for an account of his stewardship and asked if he did not think New York was an awfully wicked place. The commissioner replied in the negative and Mrs. Nation repeated the question as an assertion, whereupon Mr. Murphy requested her to stop, saying he would not discuss the matter with her. She continued, however, to play the commissioner with questions concerning drinking places, all of which he refused to answer. Mrs. Nation said she had come here to do the city some good.

"You don't know what you are talking about," said Commissioner Murphy. "Go back to Kansas and stay there. If you want to do something, why don't you do it for your husband?"

"I have no husband now," said Mrs. Nation. "I suppose you know all about that matter."

"Oh, yes," said Commissioner Murphy. "I congratulate Mr. Nation. He ought to be a happy man now."

"Why don't you want to discuss Sunday saloons?" asked Mrs. Nation, and the commissioner replied angrily: "Because I don't want to. I won't sit here and be lectured."

"What do you mean to say that you won't discuss good morals in New York? Don't you want to talk about the closing up of these hellholes and murder shops? Do you think I am crazy?"

"Yes, I do," responded Murphy. Mrs. Nation then addressed Mr. Murphy as "Father," which the commissioner resented, but the Kansas reformer persisted. "Father, don't you think a little 'hatch-etation' would be good for New York?"

"If you violate the laws I'll have you locked up," Murphy warned her.

Commissioner Murphy finally terminated the interview by beckoning to his secretary, who escorted Mrs. Nation from the room.

Before leaving town, Mrs. Nation said she would return Sunday and visit the "tenderloin" and "see everything that was open."

Burns Has a Plan.

Pittsburg, Aug. 29.—Another arbitration scheme has been launched by Simon Burns, general master workman of the Knights of Labor and president of the Window Glass Workers' association. Mr. Burns proposes an arbitration committee be selected from among such men as Archbishop Ireland, Bishop Potter, Seth Low and others of like prominence. Their decision is to be final, and accepted by both parties. Mr. Burns says that if the corporation will agree to the plan the strike will be declared off at once. Mr. Burns sent an open letter to C. M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation and to President Theodore Shaffer of the Amalgamated Association. President Shaffer is satisfied to submit to the arrangement proposed by Mr. Burns, so it only remains for Mr. Schwab to concur. If he does it may result in the immediate termination of the great strike. In his letter to Mr. Shaffer the plan proposed by Mr. Burns is for an agreement to final arbitration by three men, chosen one by each side, and the third by these two. The strike to be called off, the men return to work and abide by the decision of the arbitrators. Mr. Burns has received a letter from President Shaffer agreeing to the proposition.

Marion's Case Reopened.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—The court of appeals has decided to reopen the case of Sergeant Marion, who recently after his second trial, was sentenced to death for the murder of Captain Von Krosigk. General Von Alten bases his application for a revision of the sentence on the ground that Sergeant Hickel, who was tried and acquitted at the same time as Marion, was wrongly acquitted. General satisfaction is expressed at the fact that a rehearing of the case is assured.

Wetumpka, Ala., Aug. 29.—George Howard was convicted of murder in the first degree and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Howard was a member of the mob which lynched Robert White, a negro, in this county some months ago. After being out almost two hours the jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree and fixed the penalty at life imprisonment. Howard is one of the most prominent farmers in this section of the county. White was accused of shooting at a white man.

Strike on Lake Steamer.

Cleveland, Aug. 29.—A strike of 35 firemen on board the steamer Northland resulted in the delay of the big ship in this city. She was bound up and carried a large number of passengers returning from the Pan-American exposition. They were obliged to leave the steamer and many of them continued their journey by rail. The boat left Buffalo Tuesday night, carrying 500 passengers. The trouble is said to be because wages were not paid when due.

American Tenor Dead.

Cleveland, Aug. 29.—A cablegram was received by Miss Clara Harley of this city announcing the death at Margate, a health resort near London, of her brother, Orlando Harley, 47, the famous tenor singer. Harley was one of the few Americans who acquired fame on the English operatic stage, and during his career of 15 years appeared with all the famous prima donnas. He was born in Pittsburg. His remains will be brought to New York.

Shaffer's Claims.

Pittsburg, Aug. 29.—Mr. Shaffer declares that the strike is proceeding satisfactorily, and his association is making such inroads on the corporation's business that it will be compelled sooner or later to come to terms. His men, he says, are firm all along the line, and are determined to stand for their rights. The steel people have nothing to say but point to the mills at work and the product turned out.

Wild Oil Well Curbed.

Beaumont, Tex., Aug. 29.—The wild Palestine-Beaumont oil well, which is responsible for three deaths, was put under control by Frederick Chase, the diver. As the land surrounding the well is covered with oil, the country will be flooded with water. This will, it is believed, carry the oil to the Neches river, whence it will flow into the Gulf of Mexico.

Go the Knights

After a Pleasant Sojourn at Louisville.

The C. H. & D. Had Three Returning Specials Today.

Detroit Commandery No. 1 Stopped Ten Minutes in Lima and the Knights and Ladies Took a Rest.

The Triennial convolve of the Knights Templar has come to a close at Louisville and the 30,000 visitors are being hurried to their homes.

The first train to pass through Lima, reached here at seven o'clock this morning and another followed at eleven. A second train was made up of four Pullman sleepers and as there was a ten minutes stop nearly everybody aboard, got out to stretch his bones and get a breath of fresh air.

The Knights were accompanied by a splendid band of twenty pieces and the musicians had time to get their instruments and play one selection before the train left. The popular two-step time set the jolly travelers in motion and a circle was formed while some of the more active of the Knights did the cake walk to the enjoyment of the crowd that quickly gathered.

Everybody on board was having a good time and the ladies, many of whom had accompanied their husbands on the trip, were enjoying the occasion, not a whit less than the gentlemen. It was a sort of a negligence party, but "were away from home and nobody knows us" was a sufficient excuse to cut out the strict rules of propriety for the moment.

There will be another train returning north this evening and two more tomorrow and consequently this is the dispatcher's "busy day."

Find Them Everywhere.

The American locomotive has found favor with Japanese railroad officials, according to the correspondent of the New York Tribune at Kobe. The Superintendent of the Sanyo Company at that point says:

"We don't intend to order any more English engines for the present. Our principal reasons are that we cannot get them quickly enough, and that they cost half as much again as American engines. Orders to English makers are filled in from nine to twelve months' time, while American manufacturers supply them in from seven to nine months after acceptance of the tender. The fuel consumption comes out from the same with the American and British engine."

Brakeman F. M. Ainsworth, of the Pittsburg road, fell yesterday and injured an arm and leg so badly that he will be unable to work for a few days. Brakeman C. W. Bilber, of the same road, has a wounded eye, the result of a glider getting into the cockpit. D. R. P. White was called upon for relief. Yard brakeman F. C. Bardey, also of the Pittsburg, sprained his ankle yesterday by a misstep.—Fort Wayne Sentinel.

A Shabby Trick.

The Clover Leaf has deceived the town of Delphos for the forty-second time. A few weeks ago the old promise of shops in the canal town was renewed, but subsequent events prove the statements a mere bluff and not a bona fide effort to deal justly with the people who lent financial aid to the road when it needed both moral and financial assistance. The object of the last attempt, which awakened the hopes of Delphosians, was to bluff the people and shop employees at Frankfort, Ind. The move added a few men to the small force at Delphos, but did not come within a hundred of delivering what the town deserves or rather paid for years ago.

Placing Car Orders.

Motive Power Superintendent D. F. Crawford, of the Pennsylvania company, is this week receiving bids for 1,525 cars, which will be added to the equipment of the lines this fall. There will be 1,000 box cars, with steel under frames; 300 refrigerator cars and 225 gondolas. The company's car shops are too busy to build these cars, says the Fort Wayne Sentinel, hence the awarding of the contract to other car builders. Yesterday, instructions were left with Master Mechanic B. Fitzpatrick to build 150 horse cars and twelve large furniture cars as soon as the order calling for 300 gondolas is received.

has been filed. The latter order was taken up by the car builders this morning and as the maximum output of the east car shops is about nine cars per day, it will require at least six weeks to build the gondolas. There will be no lack of work at the carshops in this city this fall.

More D. L. & N. Litigation.

Helen H. Newberry, of Detroit, Mich., filed an intervening petition in United States court in Toledo yesterday in the consolidated cause in equity against the Detroit & Lima Northern railway company and others. She asks judgment against the defendants for eight months' rent, amounting to $1,080, on a lease of office room in the Newberry building at Detroit, alleging that the defendants have served her with a notice that they will not be bound by the lease after August 31, and will vacate the same. She claims they have a lease with her to March 31, 1902, at $135 per month.

General Notes.

Another indication of the excursion fever which has taken hold of the people was the packed train of ten coaches that reached Lima from Dayton at 12:20 to-day. The rate of $5 for the round trip caught a large number of people, many of whom came from the D. & L. division of the C. H. & D. as for south as Chillicothe. At Dayton several coach loads were added and a large number of people went from Lima. The boats had disposed of every cabin and berth, a wire from Toledo this morning bearing the information that nothing was left but cots. An inquiry was made as to where the cots would be located and the response came that they were "all over the boat."

The Big Four is placing an interlocking system in Columbus which is to be far and away the biggest of its kind in this section of the country. It is at the crossing of the Big Four with the Pan Handle and the Hocking Valley and will be equipped with 71 working levers with 20 square spaces for future use. The plant is to cost $32,000 and will soon be in operation.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Big Four will be held the last week in October. The Lake Erie and Western annual meeting will be held at Pootam, Ill., October 2.

The Talent is Kept Guessing Trying to Find the Outlet of the Oil Pool in Pleasant County, W. Va.

OIL.

The oil business is tolerably quiet. Drilling operations are not progressing with the haste that was anticipated when the advance in the price was made. In fact it would be no surprise to find at the end of the month that there was a falling off in the volume. Two things work together to bring this condition about. The first is the fact that the territory to drill is uncertain and light at best. The second is the fact that material is out of sight. There are other reasons, one of which is sufficient: the price of the crude article is too low. The other objections might be overcome by the removal of the last cause.

In the eastern fields, says the Toledo Times, they pay more attention to shooting old wells than to drilling new. They have a habit in that country of touching their wells up on regular occasions with a slight dose of glycerine. They say it works remarkably results—better in fact than a dose of costly cleaning out.

The Sun Oil company shot a well the other day in Portage township, Hancock county, two times before putting it to pumping, and even then it failed to make a producer of the paying stripe. Of course the oil must be there in order for the glycerine to do its perfect work.

The people of Texas are alive. That is more than could be said of the road commissioners who permit the highway between this city and Maumee to raise such a cloud of dust when it is known that the simple process of sprinkling with oil forever removes the awful embankment. Down at Galveston they are using oil from Beaumont to exterminate mosquitoes, and it is said it works like fire in a wasp's nest. It cleans out cisterns and swipes the infectious collections seen in gutters and on stagnant pools of water. Oil appears to be an antidote for nearly all the ills of the human race. They say it is a certain cure even for drunkenness. The last of the crimes charged to mankind. By taking it in small doses a cold may be exterminated in a single night. It will purge the system of bile, and nearly all people are infected therewith. It is the finest antiseptic in fact known to the medical world. But even in this line it is not used to the extent that its value would seem to demand. In Texas, however, it will be used to the fullest extent, but poor Ohio, it will not move in anything outside of the ancient waymarks.

Glycerine Let Go.

Another explosion of nitro-glycerine occurred between Bowling Green and Haskins yesterday, but luckily no one was seriously hurt. The shooter was lowering the last shell in a well for Fuller & Beatty, on the Hubbard farm, in Middletown township, Wood county. From an unknown cause the shell of high explosive cut loose about the time it struck the fluid in the hole.

The shooter sounded the warning cry and made for safe quarters. Mr. Fuller was on the tank with a lady, where he was explaining the oil industry, while R. A. Beatty was on the boiling tank. Mr. Beatty made a flying leap to terra firma and was badly shaken up.

The top of the derrick flew in all directions, but when an inventory was taken it was found that no damage had been done to the onlookers.

Sputter Still Sputtering.

The Palestine Beaumont well is still throwing a stream of petroleum as high as the top of the 70-foot derrick, says a dispatch from Beaumont, and it had added the life of another man to its achievements of destruction, making a total of three fatalities. James Smith and John McDaniel were drowned in oil Monday night, and yesterday Peter Gallagher met the same fate. Two other men were dragged out and finally restored to consciousness.

F. W. Chase, an expert submarine diver, came in from Galveston yesterday. He found no difficulty in staying in the spray while encased in his diving suit, but he had to work slowly. It is believed that the well will be closed without difficulty today.

An Erratic Field.

The Keener sand territory on Rock run, Lafayette district, Pleasant county, W. Va., is the most erratic of any in the lower southwest, says the Pittsburgh Commercial-Gazette. A half dozen efforts have been made to find an outlet to the pool and extend the producing territory and dry holes have been the result. Then a gusher would put in an appearance when least expected and have the talent guessing again. Mailery Bros. & Co. have made another such strike at its No. 4 on the J. W. Gorrell farm, located 800 feet east of No. 3 on the same farm. This well was drilled in last Saturday, and when a few feet in the sand started to flow at the rate of 25 barrels an hour. No arrangements had been made for a gusher, and it was shut down to erect more tankage, sufficient not having been provided to take care of the oil. The location is inside of defined limits and does not show an extension.

On Yellow creek, Center district, Calhoun county, the Lowther Oil company's No. 2 on the F. M. Depey farm did not make good the promises it held out when first drilled into the Center sand last Saturday. The showing made indicated a 200-barrel well, but later advices place its production at 50 barrels a day. The well will not make as good a producer as No. 1 on the same farm.

GAME

Laws Will be More Stringent

In Many States

Non-export Laws Have Been Enacted

In a Majority of the States Where There is Game to be Found.

Nearly All of the Northern States Now Require All Non-resident Sportsmen to Secure License.

The agricultural departments at Washington, in preparing to issue a publication, giving a digest of the game laws of the country. Especial attention is given to state laws for game protection enacted in 1901. Outlining the general scope of this legislation the authors of the publication, Messrs. T. S. Palmer and H. W. Olds, say:

"The opening year of the new century has witnessed an unprecedented interest in game protection. Nearly four-fifths of the states and territories have enacted some amendments to their game laws. These amendments vary from a slight change in the boundary law regarding seasons of close, to the adoption of a general game law or code in Arizona, California, Connecticut, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire and New Jersey. Changes in dates for opening or closing the seasons have been the most common, but restrictions on methods of capture, on sale, shipment and storage, also have been numerous. In many instances the laws necessarily have become more complex, but there has been a strong tendency toward extending protection to more kinds of game, shortening the seasons, limiting tags and throwing greater restrictions about the trade in game.

Nebraska and Missouri Act.

"Nebraska and Missouri, which suffered severely from wholesale shipments of game last year, have joined the great majority of states in adopting stringent non-export laws, leaving less than half a dozen states now without protection of this kind. Other states, notably Indiana, Montana, Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Washington, have restricted hunting by requiring licenses of non-resident hunters, an favorite expedient, particularly in the middle west, for providing a game protection fund. South Dakota and Wisconsin, in requiring residents as well as non-residents, to obtain licenses, and Oregon now licenses non-resident market hunters. In all the northern states from the Alleghenies to the Pacific, with the exception of Ohio, Idaho and Oregon, non-resident hunters must now secure licenses at a cost of $10 to $40."

It is stated that a hopeful sign of the times is the general recognition of the principle that game preservation is a national rather than a local question. Organized effort has accomplished more this year than ever before. The American Ornithologists' union, interested especially in the preservation of non-game birds, has secured the enactment of a practical uniform law in eight states and the District of Columbia, and incidentally the adoption of a uniform definition of game birds.

Attention to Big Game.

The League of American Sportsmen has given attention especially to securing better protection for big game and wild turkeys and its efforts have contributed to the passage of bills providing for a close season of three to ten years for antelope in six states, for elk in five states, and for mountain sheep and wild turkeys in two states. It has supported the principle advocated by several leading sportsmen's journals that protection can best be secured by restricting the sale of game and limiting the amount of a day's or season's bag. The influence thus exerted, combined with the aid of various other game organizations, was largely instrumental in securing the passage of numerous laws embodying these features.

The sale of all kinds of game has been prohibited by others. As a result of efforts in this direction, three kinds of game—antelope, elk and prairie chickens—have been practically removed from the markets, except in states where their killing is still permitted.

EDUCATION OF FILIPINOS

Problems Confronting the Establishment of American Schools.

HARD WORK FOR NEW TEACHERS.

A Complete Change From Spanish Methods and Ideas Necessary—The Difficulties in Teaching the Little Filipino—How the Schoolmaster Will Be Assigned.

The distribution of the new teachers to their stations has caused a keen realization of the tremendous problems confronting the establishment of American schools in these islands, writes the Manila correspondent of the New York Post.

To realize the peculiar difficulties in educating the little Filipinos it is necessary to sweep from the mind every American idea of schools, of conveyance, of communication and of language. Then imagine an area as long as from Maine to Florida, as broad as from Boston to Chicago! Over this expanse are scattered 130 inhabited islands, with over 1,000 smaller ones. There is but one railroad in the whole archipelago, and that a poor third rate line from Manila to Baguio, a distance as far as from Washington to Philadelphia. The remainder of the islands have no railroad, no public conveyance like stagecoaches, no express companies and very few wagon roads. The great majority of travel is over trails which lead here and there from village to village, often over steep mountains and through large streams.

The Spanish idea of education consisted in an ability to read the prayers of the church, write a little and figure still less. The schools had been conducted as branches of the church, and the whole idea was to prevent the natives, except a selected few, from gaining any adequate education. There was consequently no basis on which to build, no organization, no uniformity in anything.

This is the most serious condition of affairs when Dr. Atkinson took up the task of providing an American school system. He began work with but a single clerk and an interpreter, with half a dozen American teachers for work in the city of Manila and such meager information as was obtainable a year ago about school affairs in this unknown country.

The preliminary work was like the hacking of a passage through a tangled tropical jungle. A few books and supplies were sent to military posts for distribution, and detailed soldiers gathered a few children together and taught them as best they could. Villages were encouraged to supply native teachers and start schools. Then some of the volunteer soldiers who preferred to remain awhile on the islands were examined and appointed for the first rough pioneer work, together with a few wives of army officers. Thus the work proceeded, being systematized and improved week by week, so that at the beginning of June over 100 teachers were scattered singly through the length and breadth of the archipelago, and 50 more in the city of Manila were teaching English and exercising influence over probably 2,000 schools.

The question of textbooks was a puzzling one. Obviously instruction by Americans could not proceed along the lines of native dialects, and Spanish was almost as objectionable. The familiar American primers are not quite suitable, as the familiar objects of American or European childhood are lacking here, and the fruits are entirely different. School buildings are rarely seen, classes being held in some room of a private house rented for the purpose. Even the roughest of benches are scarce, and thousands of native children squat on the floor.

The educational act was passed in January, and then the work began in earnest. Hundreds of tons of carefully selected textbooks and school supplies were ordered in February, many orders being mailed, and as an example of the disadvantages under which the work must be done it may be stated that less than half have yet arrived in Manila.

No women teachers will be sent to ungarisshed towns and only to such places as already have some American women, wives of officers or civilians. To a few exceptionally good towns they will be sent in twos. The great advantage of having husband and wife who are both trained teachers is keenly realized. Of the 800 appointed only one-fifth were women, but the arrivals thus far have been evenly divided.

Many curious things happen in school work here. From one place comes the complaint that the benches have been removed from the schoolroom and used in a saloon run by a friend of the native teacher. Questions as to the duties and authority of native and American teachers in the absence of definite law cause much perplexity. In one of the Manila schools a native woman teacher, proving unsatisfactory, was discharged. The schoolroom is located on the upper floor of a private house, and a sister of the discharged teacher occupies rooms on the ground floor. The American teacher wondered at the small attendance until it was discovered that the sister was chasing the pupils away that they might attend a rival school just across the way which had been organized by the discharged teacher as a church school.

The innumerable fiestas, general and local, cause much annoyance. One teacher reported: "Fiesta of the village saint. Wicked to attend school on fiesta day. So all the children attended the cockfight instead." The appearance of a cloud of grasshoppers caused the same children to bolt out of school, for sun dried grasshopper, with a little sugar dried in, is a great delicacy.

YALE'S BICENTENNIAL

A Feature Will Be The Elaborate Decorations.

No feature of the Yale bicentennial has been worked out with more detail by the committee than that of decorations. Blue and orange will be the colors used most extensively, says a New Haven dispatch to the New York Sun, blue of course predominating. The shade of blue used will be a trifle lighter than the genuine Yale blue, which is too dark for decorative purposes.

The general design for the decoration of the Yale buildings was furnished to the committee by Lewis C. Tiffany of New York. Every window will float a Yale blue flag of the swallowtail type. The lines of the main buildings will be brought out by rows of electric lights in orange colored globes. Large shields of the bicentennial design and banks and wreaths of evergreens will be used, with other emblems such as may be appropriate to the history of each of the buildings.

From Osborn hall on the south to Battell chapel on the north, along the front of the campus, will be stretched a line of Venetian masts, each bearing a Yale streamer. The crosspieces will be festooned with evergreen, and orange gloved lights will be suspended from them. The front decorations will give the general effect of festooned hung from Phelps hall, which will be the main entrance to the campus during the bicentennial, to Osborn hall on the south and Battell chapel on the north. Seven hundred electric lights will outline the gateway. The union jack (45 stars on a blue field) will surmount the battlements of the building. Across its front will be stretched a bicentennial shield 8 by 12 feet, its framework variously decorated with flags and streamers.

Two long rows of electric bulbs inclosed in lanterns will be hung from the top of Vanderbilt hall to the middle of Vanderbilt yard. Sheffield hall will be the most elaborately decorated of any of the Scientific school buildings. On the college gymnasium and Hendrie hall, the Law school building, the decorations will be centered in the shields on the fronts. Rows of Japanese lanterns imported from Paris which look like great oranges will illuminate College street.

SUGAR BEET PESTS.

Discovery of Fungous Growth That Menaces Crop.

Professor Atwood of the New York state agricultural department has returned from Middleburg, where he went to investigate the supposed depredations of the blister beetle on the sugar beet crop in that locality, says an Albany dispatch to the New York Sun. Professor Atwood found that the blister beetle was the least of the troubles of the beet crop. There was an abundant supply of them, but there was a far greater plague of grasshoppers, and more dangerous than either was a fungus growth which has attacked the beet tops and is smothering them up.

Professor Atwood found that this fungus growth has made greater progress on land which was planted with beets last year than on land on which a first crop of beets is being raised. This season has been especially favorable for fungus growths on account of the great amount of moisture, and they have made great headway in the locality examined. Whether the danger to the crop can be remedied at this late day is a question. Where the tops are not too far gone the department probably will recommend spraying with bordeaux mixture, which prevents the formation of fungus growths. The department probably will issue directions early in the season next year for caring for the beet plants so as to prevent these growths. The department is not prepared to state at this time how extensive the damage to the sugar beet crop will be.

Car Built For the Duke of Cornwall.

When the Duke of Cornwall and York makes his trip through Canada, he will ride in one of the finest cars ever built, says a Dayton (O.) dispatch to the New York Times. It has just been completed by the Barney & Smith Car company, and has been sent to Halifax. It was ordered by the Intercolonial company and is named the Sandringham. The interior work is in mahogany, holly and light oak. There are several compartments, including observation, dining and sleeping rooms.

King Edward to Sir Thomas.

Sir Thomas, listen to your king, Who has a word to say To you in confidence about Our neighbors' cross the way.

You've gone across the sea to try For England's glory, and You know from having tried before It's mighty hard to land.

Those bloody, blasted Yankees chase For, lo, these fifty years, Here acted in a manner that Has moved us quite to tears.

Despite all efforts we have made, Including one by you, The Yankee yachts will stay in trout, Carreering o'er the blue.

We seem to do our very best With hull and mast and sail, And yet we come in every time Just like an old cow's tail.

To lift or not to lift the cup's The question now before Sir Thomas Lipton and his yacht Upon the other shore.

Now listen to your king, dear boy, A milder somewhat new, But able quite to keep his word And make it good to you.

And by my halidom I swear No longer shall you be Here acted in a manner that Has moved us quite to tears.

Now listen, if you fit that cup, I'll charge you in the book Of peerages, for I will make You Earl of Sandy Hook.

POLICE

Committee Met and Adjourned

And Met Again.

No Hearing of Police Scandals

Will be Held This Evening to Investigate the Charges Made.

Accused Officers Still on Duty and the Mayor Refuses to Suspend Them Until Charges are Preferred.

Today at 10 o'clock was the date and hour set by the police committee of the city council for the investigation of the scandals of the police department of the city but the matter is very little nearer being cleaned up now than it was before the city council instructed the police committee to proceed with an investigation. When the hour for the meeting of the committee arrived the officers who have been accused of conduct unbecoming men in the employ of the city, were still on duty as usual, no specific charges had been prepared or served on them and no summons for witnesses had been issued, although it has been four or five weeks since the matter was taken up by the city council, and during this interim the committee has secured enough information to fill a Sunday newspaper and the names of seventy-five or one hundred witnesses have been secured by those of the council and committee who are inclined to do their full duty in the matter.

Seven days ago the city council instructed the police committee to prepare specific charges against three members of the police department and to proceed with a hearing after giving the accused due notice and an opportunity to defend themselves on the charges preferred. The council at this same meeting requested Mayor McComb to suspend the accused men from duty until such time as they were either acquitted or found guilty of the violations alleged. The accused officers however, are still on duty and the mayor refuses to suspend them until specific charges are preferred.

Members of the committee stated today that they had done nothing preparatory to the hearing because the city solicitor has been out of the city on a fishing excursion for a week or more and they could do nothing without his counsel and advice. The solicitor has returned however and this afternoon at 2 o'clock Messrs. Moses, Hoyt and Sherman of the police committee met in the solicitor's office and proceeded to prepare the charges against Chief Harley, Sergeant Caddy and Patrolman Gardner, necessary to the arrangements for a hearing. No date for the hearing has yet been decided upon.

Some of the members of the council declare that unless the committee proceeds with the investigation as soon as possible they will open the matter up in open council and show to the public that there are plenty of reasons why the scandals of the police department should be investigated and produce plenty of evidence to substantiate the charges.

RUNAWAY

Accident Occured on the Public Square Today.

Squire Counts and John Mumaugh Were Thrown from a Buggy and the Former Injured.

An unfortunate runaway accident which resulted in a painful injury to one person, occurred this morning at about 11:15 o'clock. "Squire" Counts and John Mumaugh were crossing the street car tracks on the public square in a single buggy, when one of the wheels of the vehicle became loose and falling off, frightened the horse, which started to run. Both men were thrown forcibly to the pavement, Counts sustaining a deep gash in his forehead. He was taken to Dr. Steiner's office, where the wound was examined and dressed. His injury is not considered in any degree serious. The horse was stopped soon after the buggy was turned over.

AFFAIRS

In Police Circles Were Quiet Today.

One Prisoner Bound Over to the Grand Jury.

Man Wanted Here On the Charge Filed by Guy Curtis Located at Fostoria—Small Robbery Reported.

Affairs at police headquarters were comparatively quiet today, the most important catch made by the Lima "babies" being a young fellow giving his name as Carl Roush, who is charged by Cal Taftlinger with assault and battery. He claims Roush struck him with stones, causing severe injuries. Roush was bound over to the grand jury under bond of $50.

Chief Harley was notified today that a man named Ed. Thompson, who is wanted here on a charge preferred by Guy Curtis, the Everyman, has been located by the Fostoria police. Word was sent back immediately to arrest Thompson and hold him until sent for. No information of his arrest has yet been received.

A servant girl in the employ of Dr. and Mrs. McCall, of east Market street, notified the police today that a garnet ring which she prized very highly, had been stolen from her. At a late hour this afternoon, the police had found no clue to the theft.

NEIGHBORS

File Complaint Against Geo. Troutman

For Alleged Cruel Treatment of His Children.

Mrs. Troutman is Also Included in the Warrant Issued This Afternoon in Justice Duffield's Court.

Complaint was made to the Humane Society this afternoon and a warrant issued by Justice Duffield for the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. George Troutman, of 728 south Union street, on the charge of mistreating their children. The complainant is George Powers, a neighbor living at 724 south Union street, and according to his statements the three children, who range in years from 3 to 10, are frequently whipped and abused in a shameful manner. Resistance on the part of the neighbors has been of no avail and Mr. Powers said he could stand it no longer.

He makes affidavit to having seen the oldest child and a sister younger putting out a washing this morning, and that only a few days ago one of the neighbors went into the house and took a broomstick away from Troutman, who was using it as a weapon. The husband and wife, it is alleged, do not live like doves, but that there are frequent quarrels which send the little ones screaming into the street. The warrant will be served this afternoon and a day set for the hearing.

THE STAGE

"H. V. Esmond has given to the American and English stage a very remarkable and clever play. It comes at the right time. It comes as a wholesome check to decadence and degeneracy. It is as sweet as mountain air that has been kissed by the heather, and all the men are brave, sympathetic, honest, loyal fellows. They are not ashamed to wear their hearts on their sleeves and do not care how many daws peck at them"—so wrote the critic of the New York Herald about "When We Were Twenty-one," which will be presented at Faurot's opera house, Friday evening.

Uncle Jos Spruceby. A big company in an enjoyable comedy-drama, an operatic orchestra of 14 pieces, 3 brass bands in a novel street parade all at 10, 20 and 30 cent prices makes a magnet that will no doubt pack the opera house to the doors, Saturday matinee and night. "Uncle Jos Spruceby" makes his bow on that occasion and the jolly old New Englander will afford an evening of fun and amusement. The play is on the order of "Shore Acres" and "The Old Homestead" with many specialties, and the sensational saw mill scene is an exciting climax. "Uncle Jos" was always a welcome favorite at high prices and will be doubly so at the remarkably low prices at which he appears this season. The seat sale opens Friday morning.

FIREMAN

Galloway Resumed His Duties This Morning.

Fire Committee Investigated Charge Against Him and Returned a Verdict of Not Guilty.

Yesterday afternoon the members of the fire department committee of the city council met at the north side hose house, and held an investigation of a charge that was filed against fireman Tom Galloway by captain Gagin, of the north side department last week. Galloway had been suspended and was charged with having been intoxicated but the committee found no such evidence against him, all the witnesses testifying that they had never seen the accused under the influence of liquor. The members of the committee agreed upon a verdict of not guilty and ordered fireman Galloway to resume his duties this morning. He will, however, receive no pay for the eight days that he was off duty.

SHERIFF

Webster, of Van Wert, in Close Quarters.

Struggle With a Demon Armed With a Knife

In Which the Officer Got a Couple of Slight Scratches—The Prisoner Sent to Mercer County Infirmary.

A tragedy was narrowly averted in Ridge township yesterday afternoon, says the Van Wert Bulletin. Sheriff Webster and County Infirmary Director Dickinson visited a farm six miles south-east of town, where Daniel Hammond has been living in the woods. He is the old man who was provided a home in the Mercer County Infirmary, but refused to go to the institution. The officers knew he could not survive the winter in the woods, therefore, they determined upon his arrest as a means of bringing him under the surveillance of Mercer county officials. They drove to the place where Hammond was located. Sheriff Webster remained in the back ground while Dickinson endeavored to persuade Hammond to accompany him without being arrested. He seemed content with this arrangement, started off with Dickinson, but had not gone far when he threw off his coat, pulled out a knife, knelt down and shouted, "witness the act." Sheriff Webster was upon him in a bound, but not in time to prevent him from cutting a gash several inches long in his neck. Hammond was in a frenzy and turned his attention to the sheriff. He made several vicious strikes at the officer's throat. They fell to the ground together and Hammond continued to fight like a demon. Once the point of his knife struck the sheriff on the nose and another time on the chin. Dickinson finally saw an opening and rushed in. He caught Hammond by the throat and choked him into submission. During the struggle Webster never loosened his grasp on Hammond's wrist and this fact no doubt saved him from receiving dangerous, if not mortal wounds. Hammond was brought to town and locked in the County Jail. He was claimed today by an officer from Mercer county.

THEFT

Was Traced to Mrs. Carter.

Plea of Guilty

Entered and the Woman Sent to Jail.

Bond Fixed at $50 on Account of the Prisoner's Delicate Condition

But Her Husband Failed to Return to Her Assistance and at 10 O'clock Mrs. Carter was Locked Up.

Constable Cremean, after an almost endless search for the articles stolen from the home of Mrs. Whittier at the extreme end of east North street, finally brought the deed home to Mrs. Philip Carter and her arrest followed yesterday evening. The Times-Democrat contained the first chapter of the robbery several days ago, and at that time officer Cremean had not only searched the Carter home, but also the houses of several of Mrs. Carter's friends who live in another part of the city.

The only articles found were a couple of handkerchiefs in Mrs. Carter's washing, and these, Mrs. Whittier identified. A systematic search was made of the premises but nothing else found. Mrs. Whittier accompanied officer Cremean on his rounds but although articles of clothing and places where the missing goods might be hidden were carefully examined, nothing else was brought to light. Still positive that the Carter woman had the things in her possession, another search of the premises was made yesterday afternoon, and a small piece of carpet matching the 20 yard roll that was stolen, was carried by Constable Cremean.

"It was this remnant that enabled him to lay the crime at Mrs. Carter's door, and at the same time disclose a smooth scheme on her part to prevent detection. The carpet on Mrs. Carter's best room was the same in design as the one stolen from the Whittier home while the family was away on a visit, but the colors had been changed with dyes and Mrs. Whittier herself had walked over the floor a number of times without noticing the deception.

Confronted by this last piece of evidence, Mrs. Carter weakened and confessed her guilt. She realized the full effect now of her offense and tearfully declared that she couldn't account for the action, as she had never before been guilty of stealing. There was nothing left for Constable Cremean to do but place Mrs. Carter under arrest and before Justice Duffield yesterday morning she entered a plea of guilty to the charge contained in the affidavit. The discovery was made that the woman is in a delicate condition and to prevent her from having to go to jail the court fixed her bond at $50.

The woman's husband left the court room, presumably to find someone to go on the bond, but after waiting until ten o'clock for his return, the prisoner was taken to jail. Carter, it seems, went home and left his wife to sort out of her predicament as best she could and no one has yet appeared to help her. A box containing a lot of scraps of linen have been found, which prove to be the remnants of the missing sheets. Mrs. Carter having taken this means to get rid of them.

Mrs. Whittier will have the things belonging to her returned with the exception of the silver watch and gold chain which Mrs. Carter confesses to having thrown down an oil well rather than run the risk of having it found in her possession.
